

ShabbaTTogether

The Masks We Wear Program for Women

Goals: Participants will gain awareness of how our beliefs about ourselves impact our lives. Participants will learn practical tools for how to engage in daily experiences from a place of worthiness and dignity.

Target Audience:

1. Shluchos will be able to share the pre-recorded program and worksheets with women in your own communities.
 - a. NOTE: This workshop was presented live to shluchos to experience before giving it over to their community members. If you missed the live program and would like to see it, CLICK HERE to watch the recording. (Not required, but helpful.)

Time: This program runs for approximately 1½ hours.

Medium: Facilitated pre-recorded interactive Virtual program with printable worksheets.

Note to Shluchos Facilitator:

- In advance of the program, email participants the included worksheets that are to be printed out and have available to be used during the program.
- The pre-recorded program has three videos, each about 10 – 20 minutes in length. After showing each video, participants will form a personal connection with the ideas presented and will be able to further personalize them through completing several worksheets and joining in an interactive facilitated discussion.
- Shluchos can serve as the facilitators and we recommend you find a community mental health professional to either co-facilitate or have on as well in case sensitive topics come up throughout the program.
- After the conclusion of each video, introduce the corresponding worksheet to the participants. Provide time for the participants to fill out the worksheet/have discussion if comfortable. That is the meat of the program and we'll create the most impact.

- You can also recommend participants use the worksheets at home to continue working on these concepts.
- This program can be run with multi-generational participants or similar cohorts. It can also be done as a small group for a rich experience or with a larger group and be just as meaningful.
- This program can be a one time event or it can be extended into a series of several sessions. For example, the videos can be used with a discussion and the worksheets can be used at a separate time, or you can only use one of the three videos of your choice per session etc.
- If you want further instruction or to bring the presenters to your community, please email info@shabbattogether.com

Our beliefs about ourselves drive the way we engage in our lives.

Think about a challenging situation you recently encountered.

What did you believe about yourself? How did that belief impact your experience? What might happen if you believed something different about yourself?

Belief: I believed that....	Emotion: So I felt....	Action: Then I did.....	Impact: Which left me feeling like....

(Disempowering belief) If I would believe that....	I might feel like....	Which might lead me to.....	Then, I'd feel like....

(Empowering belief) If I would believe that....	I might feel like....	Which might lead me to.....	Then, I'd feel like....

In what way are your beliefs about yourself limiting you and fueling your sense of shame and disempowerment?

In what way are your beliefs about yourself supporting your worthiness and empowerment?
